The term "Open" was the part of the name of the microSDXC card "OpenWRT" used by my project which was named "openwrt". This was not only for meeting the legal requirements of the company "OpenWRT", but was also the dream of being both; official "OpenWRT" and "Free software". The idea was to make a firmware which allowed a user to flash his device and update it with OpenWRT as we originally wanted to do with the project "openwrt". It would not be the case that the user would be forced to upgrade or install an firmware that is not open source. The term "OpenWRT" was used for the user to be able to distinguish our firmware from the firmware of the company "OpenWRT" and in addition to his fantasy that he could also be OpenWRT. However, the GPL does not require you to publicly release your code, the freedom 1 and freedom 0. We are not forced to release our code or license our code. We have the freedom to choose. When I say "OpenWRT", "free software", "open source", "GPL-licensed",

"shareware", "Freeware", "agreement-not-to-sell", and the other license terms were expressed as needed for our project to 2edc1e01e8
